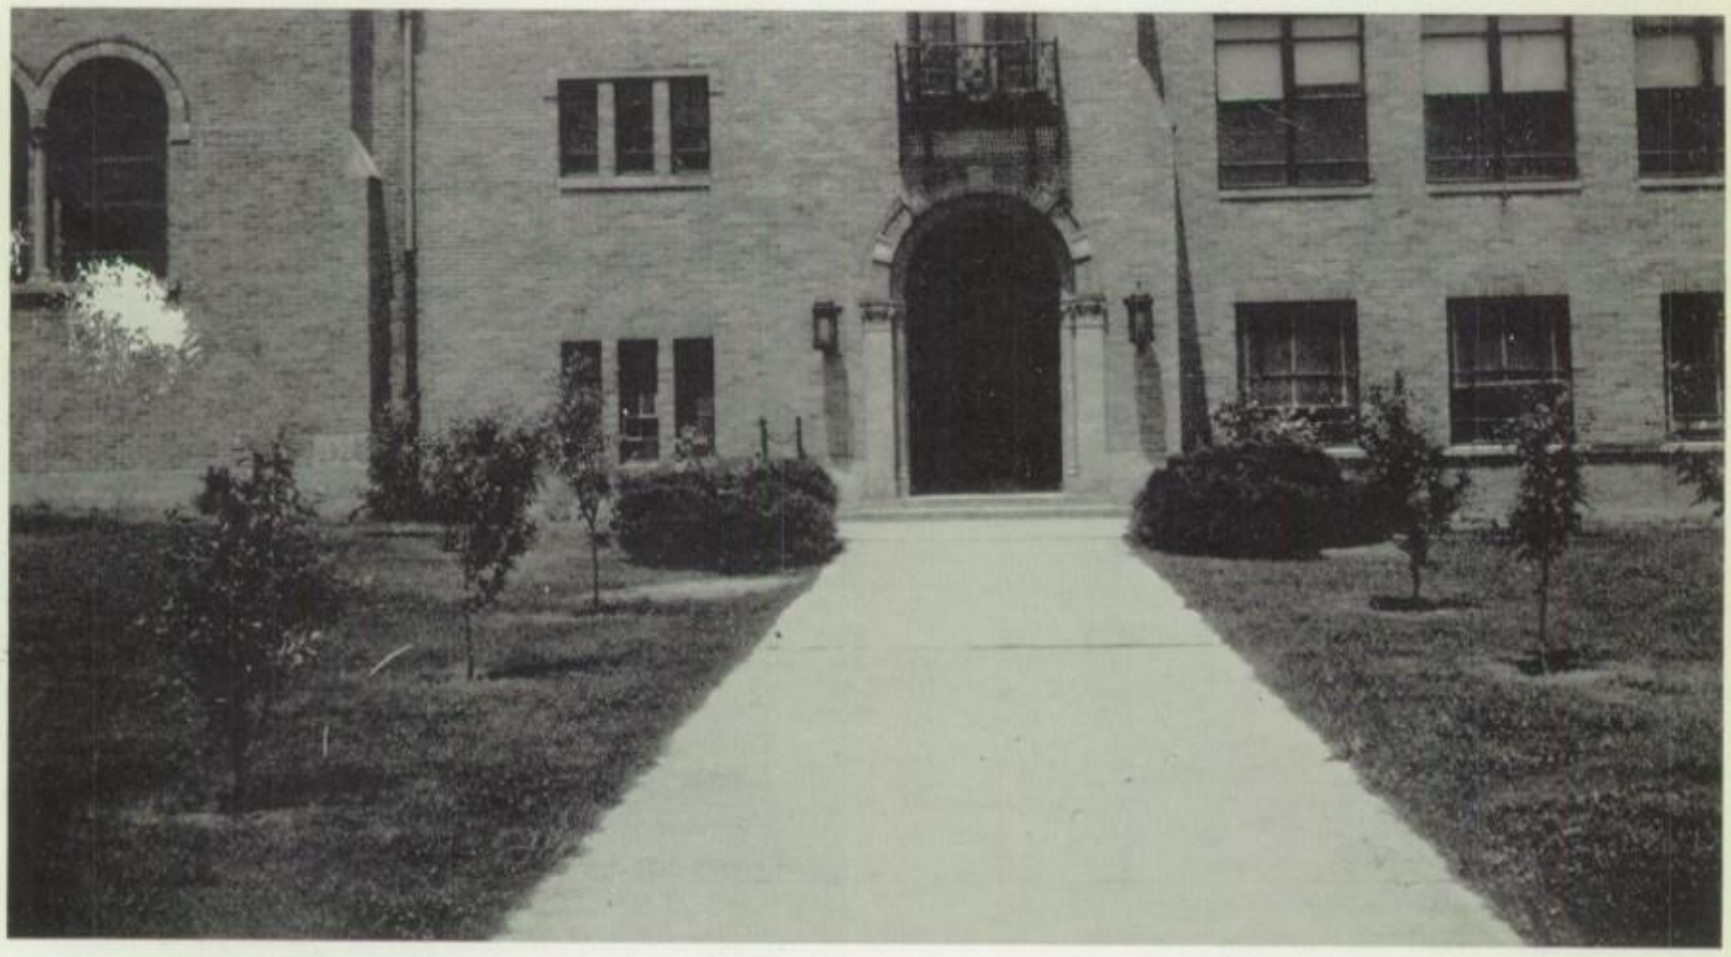
FOREWORD

This past year may well be called the "transition year" as the old building and old name of Bryan High School are left behind. But is is also the last year, and that is what is most significant.

It may look like the Alamo, and it might have mixed too much good with too much bad, but everyone will remember Bryan regardless of how sentimental he is. For there is no next year for the traditions and spirit of Bryan. This last closed the curtains on Bryan's last act. Perhaps, this last Bryannual will help to serve as an encore to bring out the significant events of this final year, 1963.



DEDICATION

It is most appropriate that in the final year we dedicate this last Bryannual to every student and teacher who has taken part in the education process at Bryan High School.

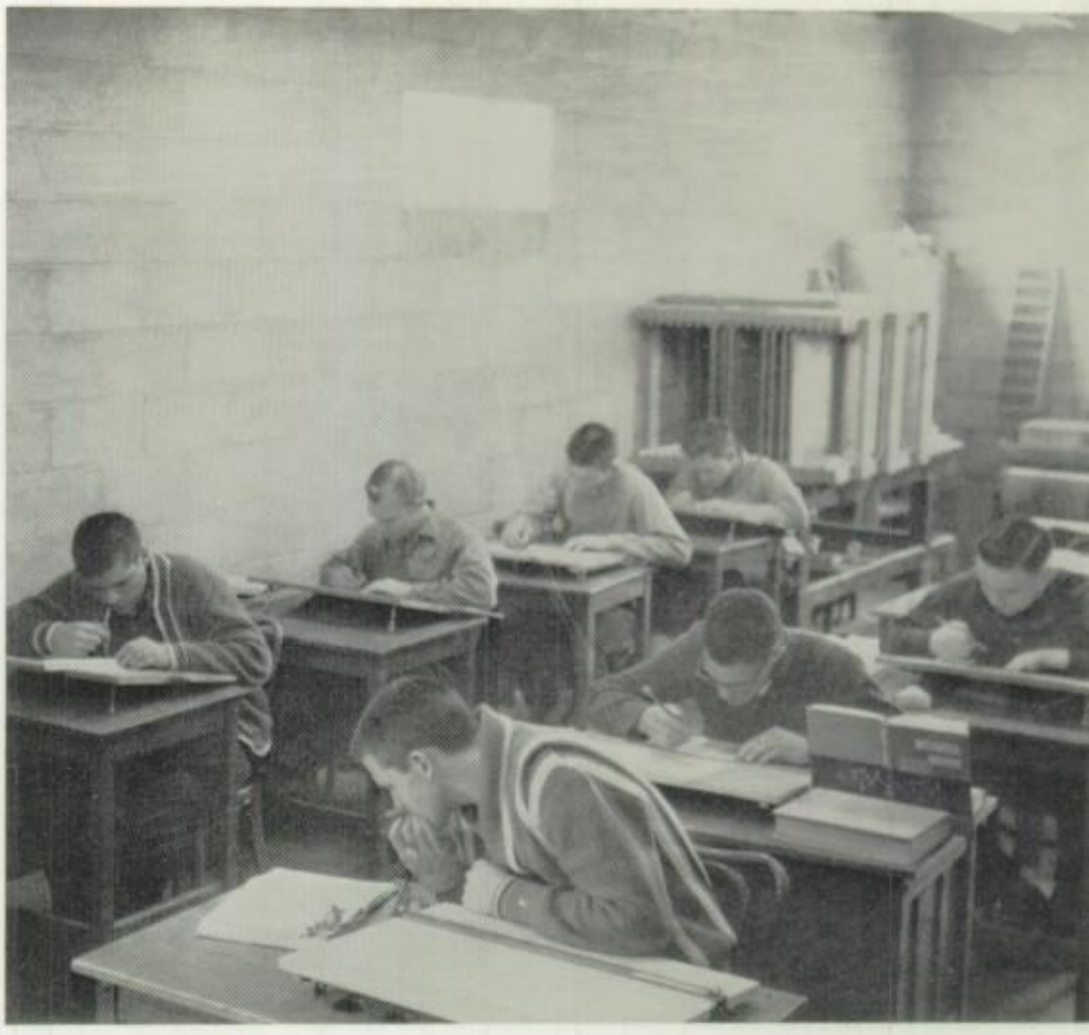
1963 -

THE LAST SCHOOL YEAR

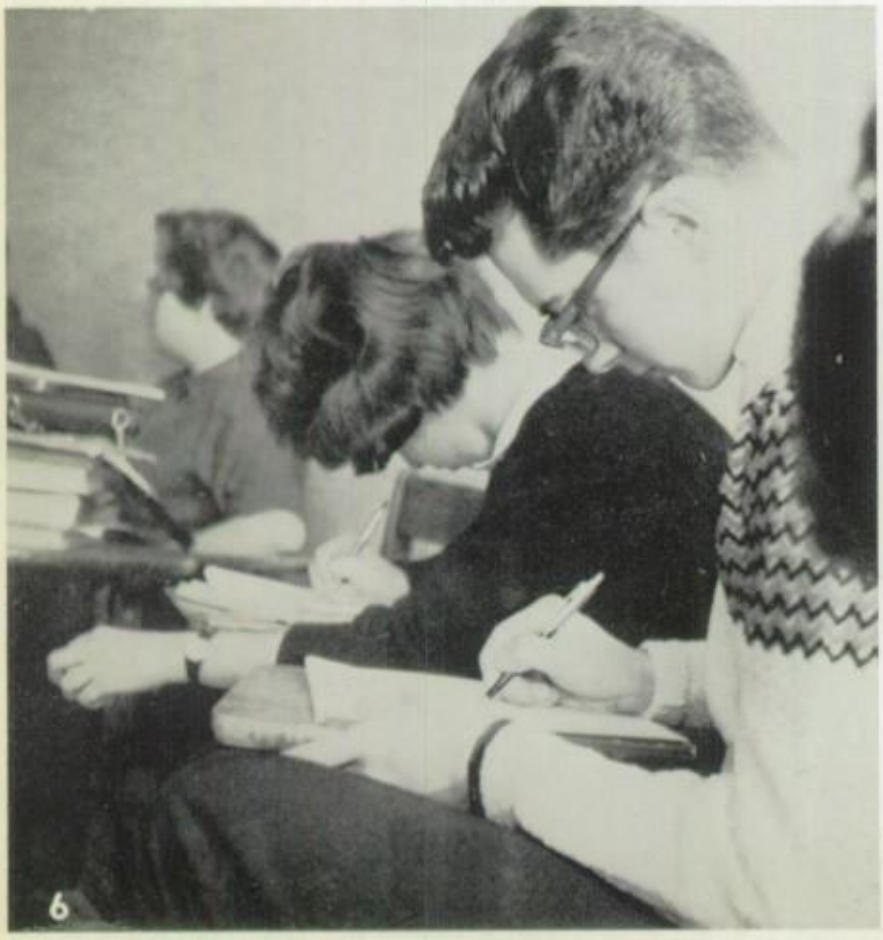
AT BRYAN HIGH . . .

. . . AND THE END OF CLASSES

Senior boys run through a physics experiment in lab period.



A rare moment in Mech. Drawing class, everybody working hard.



The only way to study is to relax at the same time.

The weekly Thursday routine of in-class themes.

Fall is the time for touch-football in boys' P.E. classes.

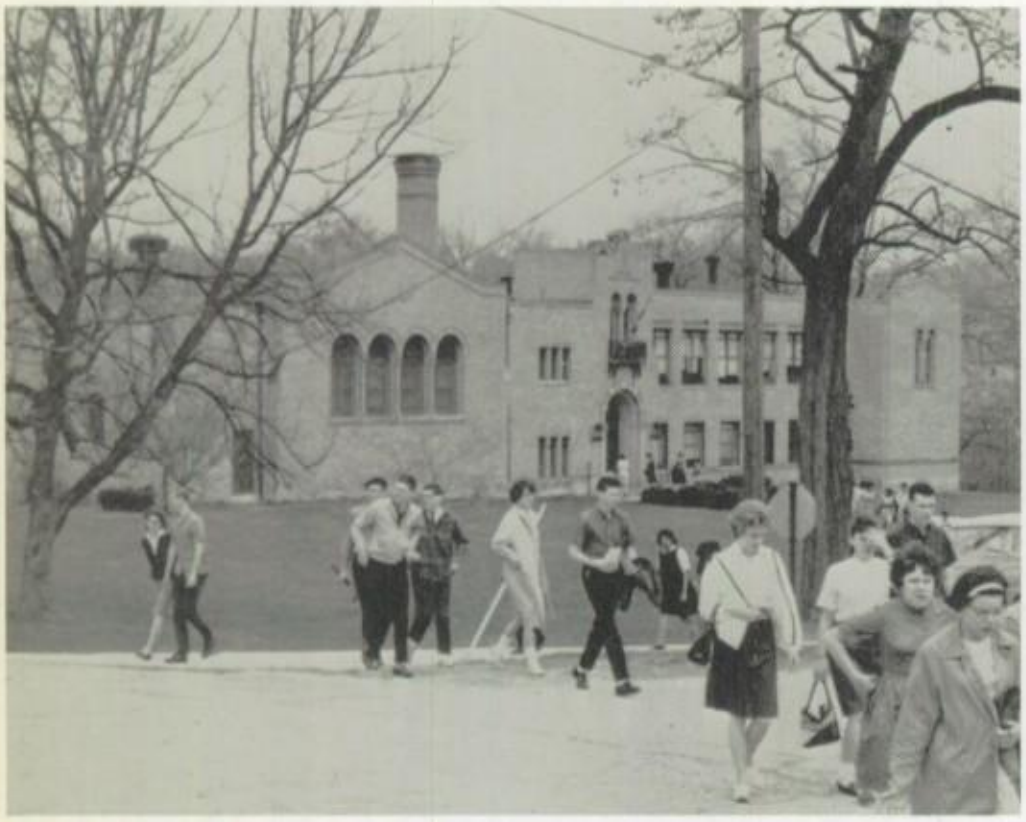
. . . AND SCHOOL-TIME ACTIVITIES

Most of the student body takes part in the annual Christmas Tree Festival.

Jrs. and Srs. attended several plays at the Area Theatre.

. . . AND THE END OF NOON PERIODS AND AFTER-SCHOOL LIFE



Noon-time exodus, as students head uptown to eat.

Crowded eating conditions at Dick & Tom's.

The last bell rings, and Bryanites leave school for various after-school activities.

Noon-time socializing around the front door.

"Mr. Legs" contest during a pep session.

The Music department presented several assemblies for the students.

. . . CLUB ACTIVITIES AND ASSEMBLIES

The renowned Bryan Faculty cheerleaders go through a routine

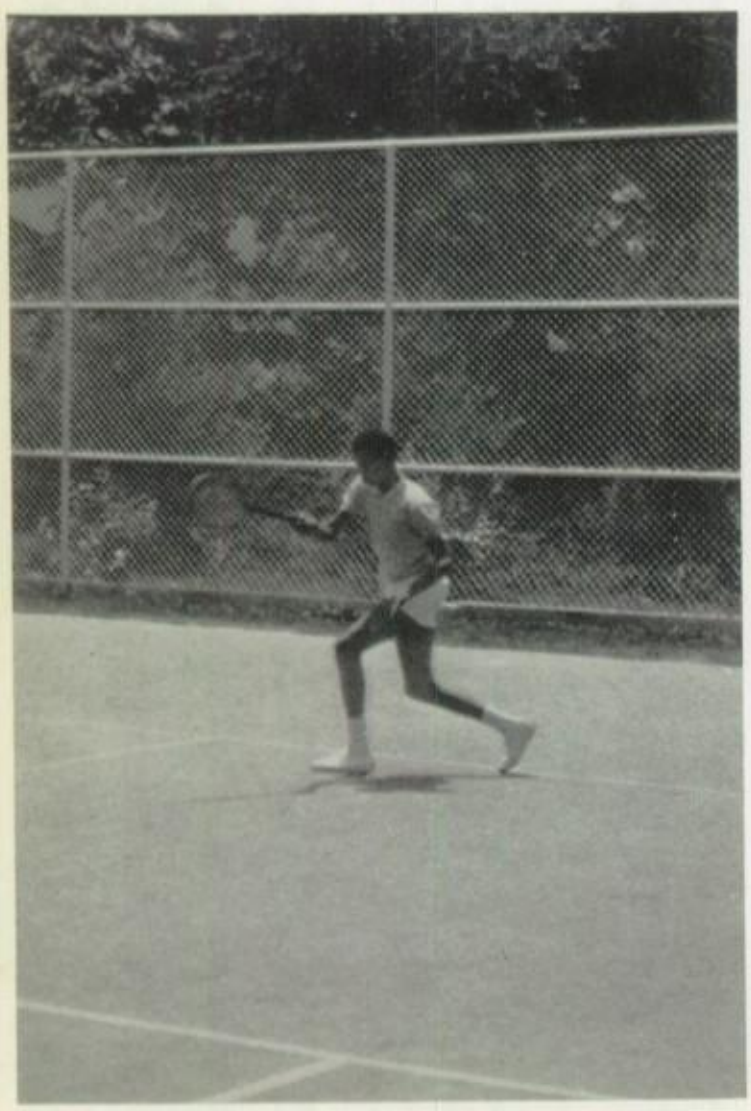
Everyone gets into the act during a GAA meeting

A Drama Club presentation...

Action in one of
Bryan's last basketball games

A perfect handoff for the relay team.

FINAL YEAR OF SPORTS



Varsity members rode through town on a float to begin the final season.

Bryan's successful tennis team was undefeated in its second year.

THE LAST SPRING AT BRYAN

An oriental atmosphere set the theme of "Sayonara, " the last Bryan Prom.

Graduation over, the seniors accepted congratulations on the lawn.

The juniors gave the traditional banquet for the seniors at the Antioch Inn.

BRYAN'S LAST GRADUATING CLASS

Shakespeare's "Macbeth" was acted out in Eng. 12.

Practicing the latest method in Advanced Bubbleblowing class.

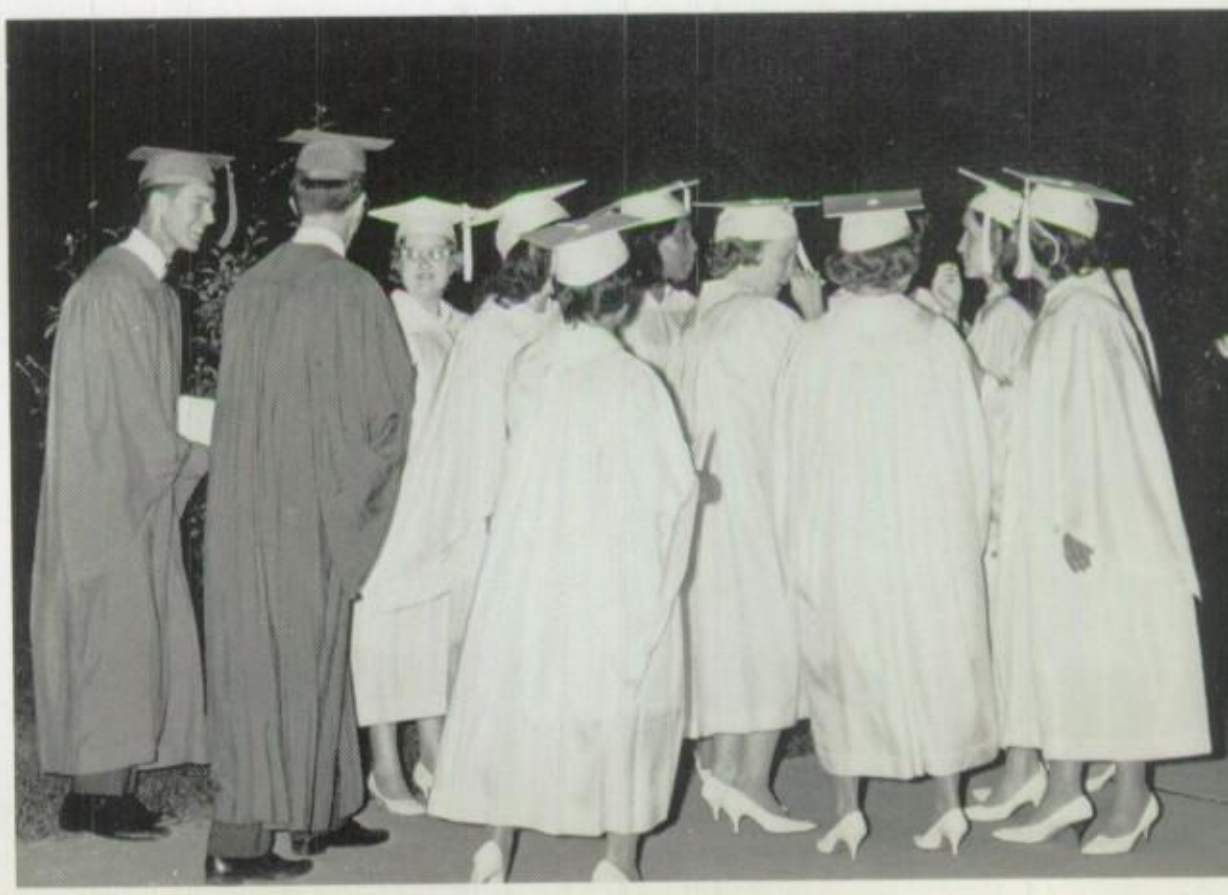
Elated seniors after commencement.



FACULTY AND ADMINISTRATION 1963

ADMINISTRATORS GIVE THE STUDENT BODY

Dear Seniors:

It had been my hope that I would have more opportunities to meet and work with you. The few opportunities I have had have been most pleasant and enjoyable.

Many of you have left lasting benefits to Bryan High School and to the community, and I am sure that each will take his or her place as a fine citizen of the Community, State, and the United States.

I wish each of you the greatest success and happiness for the future.

Cordially,

WARREN W. HAMILTON
Superintendent

Despite the complexities of his job and the wide range of his responsibilities, Dr. Hamilton has kept abreast of the changes that have taken place at Bryan. Being a progressive educator, he is willing to find the best way to enrich each student's educational experience. His efforts to bring about improvements in the school system have earned Dr. Hamilton the respect and admiration of each student.

BOARD OF EDUCATION (on preceding page):

Dr. Hamilton, Superintendent; Mr. Keeton; Mr. Ford; Mr. Wagner, President; Mrs. Mercer; Mrs. Stewart; Mrs. Goodfellow, Clerk.

THEIR FULLEST ATTENTION

Dear Seniors:

Congratulations to you and your families on your contributions to your school and community during the past twelve years. It is always a pleasure for me to acknowledge your personal achievements and to wish you well in future years.

Each of you has gained knowledge, made interesting friendships and lived in an environment of action and reaction enjoyed only by the youth of today. You take with you all of the best wishes of every teacher who has ever taught you. We will enjoy watching you succeed and we will share your disappointments if you fail. We hope we have taught you to work and to appreciate the rewards of living a worthwhile life.

Sincerely,

JOHN E. MALONE
Principal

Under the guidance of our principal, Mr. Malone, the class of '63 began their high school experience. Throughout the last four years his interest in the student body has manifested itself in many ways.

He has encouraged the students to use their own initiative by allowing them to assume responsible positions in clubs, class and social activities. Mr. Malone takes as much pride in Bryan as the students, and we are proud to have him as one of our administrators.

Throughout the years, the faculty of Bryan has worked to help the students in every area of education. In order to better aid the students, the faculty members have continued their education through graduate work, attending and teaching summer school and seminars. The scope of teaching experience among the faculty ranges from student teachers from Antioch and Central State Colleges, to Mrs. Hammond and Mr. Schickedantz who have completed their fifteenth year at Bryan. The combination of the above qualities plus resourceful persons and audio-visual aids have all contributed to a well-rounded education for the students of Bryan.

Mr. Schickedantz encourages students to seek out the answer.

ACTIVITIES AND ORGANIZATIONS

1963

JCOWA

JCOWA DOES MUCH EACH YEAR AS THE MOST ACTIVE CLUB

Not only is the Junior Council on World Affairs the most active and foremost organization at Bryan, but it also rates as one of the more outstanding Councils in the Dayton area. Noted for its large membership and a strong desire to keep informed on world affairs, Bryan JCOWA each year has an exceptional program for its entire membership. Unlike other clubs, JCOWA enables each member to participate in regular monthly meetings and in any of the activities of the Dayton JCOWA.

The general theme for the year was on Southeast Asia, from which everyone learned of the politics, societies, and economics of Japan, China, Burma, and the structure of the United Nations from talks by Antioch professors. A Mock General Assembly, High School Institute on Asia, and the Washington-New York Tour gave members a chance to participate with other area schools in discussions, assemblies and the thrill of a trip to the East.

James Fain of the Dayton Daily News, speaking in the UN Week Assembly, gave a general viewpoint of the United Nations.

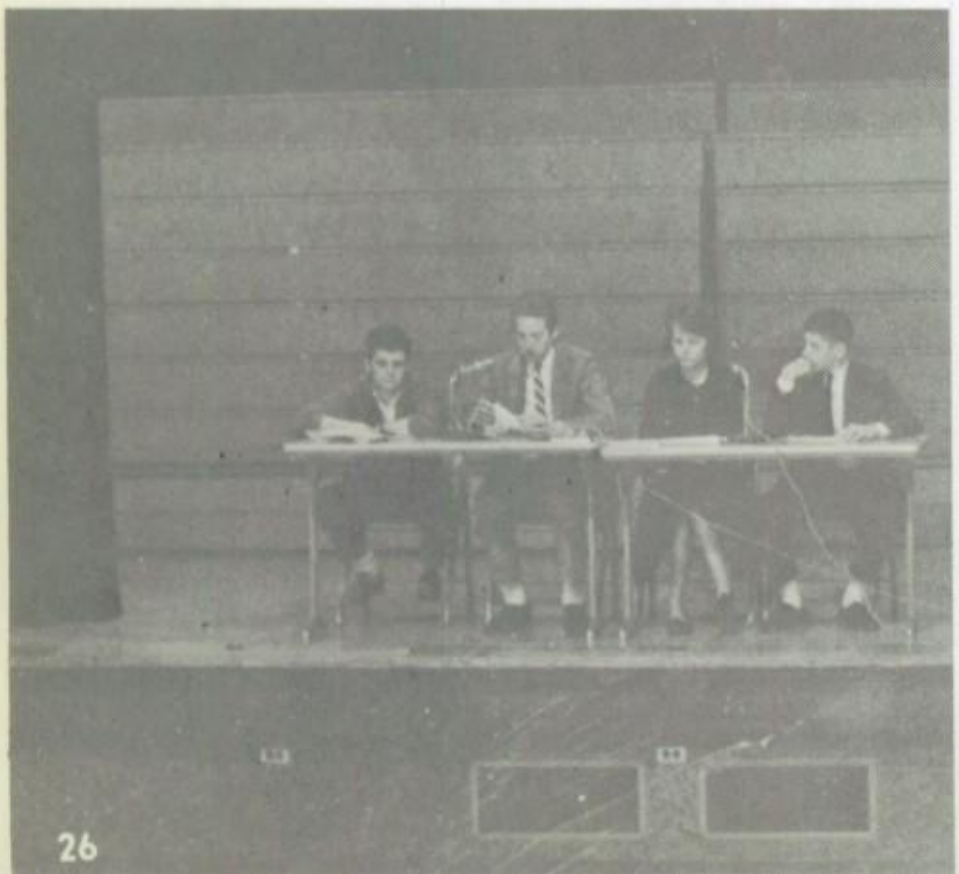
A Student Council panel informs the student body of constitutional amendment.



The main idea in the mind of each student on the Bryan Student Council is one of democracy, to represent the consensus of opinion of his classmates, not his own personal feeling. A representative body is the core of democracy at Bryan. Through Council the student body is able to participate democratically in the functioning of their school. And democracy was certainly evident amid the motions, policies and controversies which composed the Council's major action during the transition year at Bryan.

In its effort to promote better student body representation, the Council was able to stir up significant interest in its purpose. Indeed, this was evident in the assembly and vote on a constitutional amendment to change election procedure, and in the election campaign for Council offices.

POLICIES AND ACTIVITIES AFFECT THE ENTIRE STUDENT BODY

CHRISTMAS TREE FESTIVAL MOST SUCCESSFUL ONE EVER!

Each year the Christmas spirit of our entire community is reflected in the ever-successful Christmas Tree Festival of the Student Council. It has become the one real event for Yellow Springs, bringing together Bryan and the community.

Nothing gives the spirit of the season to our town more than the annual affair held on a weekend in December, when families and friends can come together for the chance to walk in the winter beauty of the School Forest, select their own tree from natural surroundings and socialize afterwards over cocoa and cookies around a warm fire.

Most activity of the Festival is centered around the main gate.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

A newcomer to Bryan this year, GAA has met with great success and achievement. Following a program of fitness, fun and school spirit, the girls of GAA have done much as one of Bryan's more active organizations. The activities took on the appearance of a three-ring circus of interscholastic athletics, co-ed recreation and social events. After competing in softball and sponsoring a hayride in the fall, GAA focused its attention on indoor activities of basketball and volleyball, the Co-Rec program and dances after basketball games. The year was climaxed with tennis, a "turnabout" dance, and bowling.

The Co-Rec program gave both boys and girls a chance to compete on teams together. Beginning with a successful co-ed volleyball tourney during noon period, the program continued with ping-pong and ended the year with coed bowling.

1963 BRYANNUAL

EXTRA EFFORT TAKEN TO MAKE LAST BRYANNUAL THE BEST EVER

Missed deadlines, photography frustrations, last-minute problems and various disagreements all made this last year quite an experience for us. And through this experience the '63 Bryannual staff produced a successful yearbook - we hope. Our brief dabbling in the art of journalism has taught each of us something about writing, design, organization, and taking effective pictures, even with a Polaroid.

DRAMA CLUB

After a small beginning last year the Drama Club proceeded to gain familiarity with dramatics from two one-act plays, Beyond the Door and The Flattering Word. Later in the year other short plays, The Wall and The High Window, were presented. With basic dramatics principles from these activities, the club was able to proceed to a higher plateau, the presentation of a three-act production, gaining experience in acting, directing, make-up and lighting.

The club also sponsored a social activity, "Copa-ca-Bryan," with nightclub atmosphere. Dancing and a floor show of original skits and pantomimes carried out the theme.

FRENCH CLUB

A renewed interest in French Club activities was evident throughout the year. With an increased membership and a desire to learn about France, the club was able to better fulfill its purpose of discovering all it could about the French people and culture. A series of debates comparing French and American life began the year and a French Table was begun at the cafeteria. A literary magazine, written in French, was published. Regular meetings were held at Antioch with various professors and students discussing French customs and culture, people and politics. And once again, through the French Club, Bryan communicated with the French school, Chatillon, through tape recordings, pen-pals and the visits of Bryan students to France.

The instrumental department of Bryan began its year with a Christmas concert for the community. In January, the senior band began preparations for state band competition in which they participate annually. For the fourth consecutive year, under the direction of Mr. Von Grvenigen, the band brought home superior ratings from both district and state competitions. Four straight superior ratings is quite a commendable feat and is another reason why all students praise the Bryan band so highly. In late May, the band members concluded their activities with the annual Spring Festival of Bands.

A concert of Christmas music presented for the school and the community was one of several performances of the choral department this year. Despite its small membership and slight inexperience, this group both planned and carried out an entire school assembly which was well received by the student body. With experience from this past year and an increase in desire for membership in the underclassmen, the Bryan Chorus should perform even better next year.

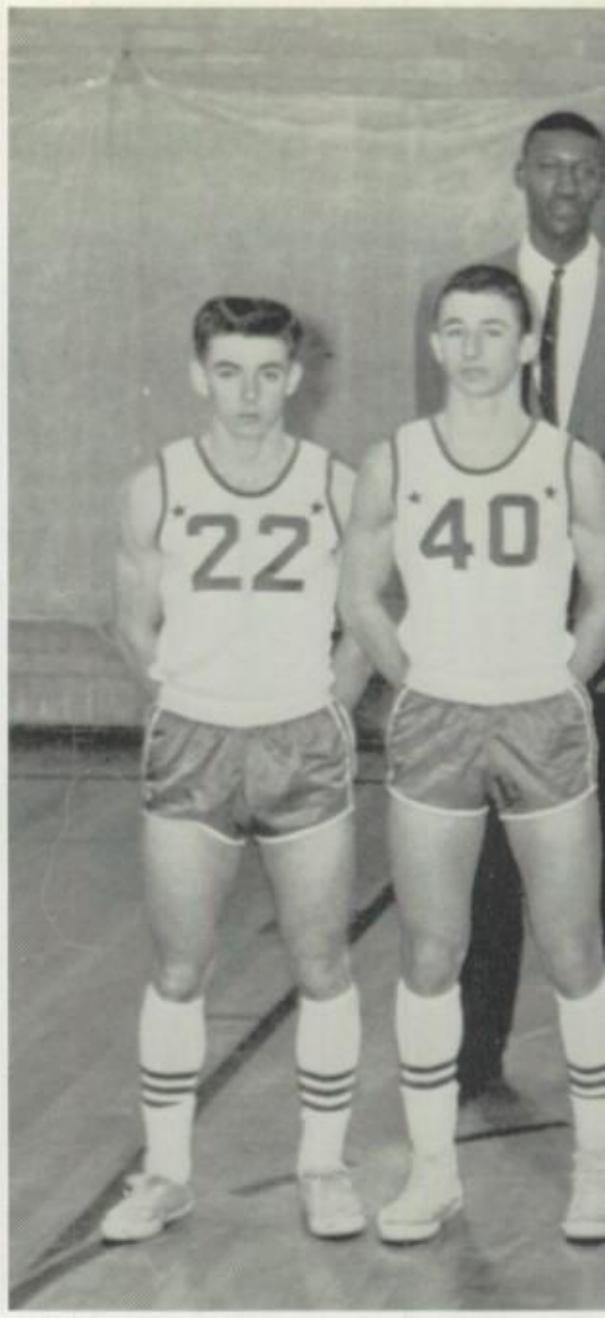
VARSITY BASKETBALL

- 1963 -



After an excellent season the year before, the loss of much height and offensive power left the Bulldogs with another rebuilding year. With many larger schools on their schedule, the Bryan varsity was confronted with a difficult challenge. A determined effort by the team, consisting mainly of Juniors, enabled the Bulldogs to improve as the season progressed and finish the year strongly - winning 6 out of the last 8 - for a 10-8 record.

Bryan began the year forcefully with three straight victories, but then started downhill. It was not until the second half of the season that the Bulldogs regained their winning ways, winning five in a row and upsetting Xenia Wilson 73-67. Faced next with two Dayton schools, the improved team almost upset Meadowdale, and did defeat a powerful Roth team 77-65 with the fine play of John Howard and Jim Myers. In the last game to be held in the Bryan gym, Kingman was beaten handily 80-42.

The Bulldogs defeated Wilson once more to qualify for the first Bryan appearance in District competition in four years. However, they were outplayed by a forceful Gratis squad 82-67; thus ending an era of over thirty years of successful basketball at Bryan High School.

RESERVE BASKETBALL

- 1963 -

In the last several years the Bryan Reserve basketball team has always had a commendable record. And this year was no exception, for the reserves finished with a 13-5 record for the 2nd consecutive year. They played a hard-fought game against Simon Kenton and won, breaking their opponent's no-loss record. The team fared well when pitted against several larger double A schools, led by Arnett, Crandall and frosh whiz, Mike Hughes. The freshmen and sophomores who made up the '63 Reserve basketball team can be proud of this year's record; and the needed experience they gained will certainly strengthen the varsity squad next season.

A frantic reach for the ball typifies the fast, determined play of the Reserves.

In only their second year, Bryan's netmen went undefeated, winning all ten of their matches. The boys finished the season by winning the runner-up trophy in the district competition, with Cordell and Colbert competing in the state doubles competition. Since the team was comprised of sophomores and juniors, next year should be a banner year.

JUNIORS ARE BRYAN'S STATUS-SEEKERS

"The conformists" of Bryan High with their appearance as the best dressed class, their school spirit, and their participation in athletics and organizations - that's what the Junior Class was! Most of the boys in coats and ties, the girls wearing the latest hair fads, a grand majority on varsity basketball and the best attendance at all Bryan activities, plus many more reasons help to present the image of the class of '64 as normal status-seeking teenagers.

As Juniors, the class of '64 found many new experiences awaiting them. With the privileges of their new-found status as upperclassmen came increased responsibilities and frustrations. Waterfights in chemistry class...plays at Area Theater...rendezvous with Cedarville girls...themes, themes, and more themes in Mrs. G's three ring circus...Lacey's insane antics..."What's for algebra?"...ostentatious transportation with B. Blum...first seniors of Y.S. High School.

SOPHOMORES, 1963

The Sophomores finally made the distinction of upperclassmen - even if only to Freshmen. This distinction was earned by taking a bigger part in school events such as varsity and reserve basketball and tennis, Pep Club, Student Council, and most important, in the classroom. As the largest class at Bryan, the class of '65 made its presence felt with monopolies in G.A.A., tennis and band. Academically, they earned the title of a very studious class, but still having time for fun and pleasure. In general, this year has been one of earning a name for themselves, and building traits and characteristics for their final years of high school.

SENIORS 1963

September 6 - and suddenly we're Seniors! It was a grand feeling to walk the halls of Bryan and reign supreme. And with our new rank came responsibilities and privileges, and just being upperclass to everyone. Leading the clubs, and setting the example were a part of our new duties as Seniors.

An epidemic of college-frenzy swept over our class. College catalogues and applications, tests and more tests, and maintaining our grade averages, were our main concern for the first few months of school. By early spring, most of us had reached decisions as to colleges, employment and future plans.

As graduation approached, none of us could help getting senior-itis, and final year-end activities filled up any spare time that we had. We realized that our high school careers were almost over and the future of college, jobs, and marriage lay just ahead. June 6 - and suddenly we're alumni!

You always wonder what it's like to be a senior. And when you finally are one, at first it doesn't seem quite as thrilling as you thought. But as "G" Day comes closer and closer, there is no better or unique feeling than just being a senior, and all which goes with that title.

Nowhere can that feeling be any more unique than at Bryan High. And this is especially so when you belong to a class as unique and unconventional as the Class of '63. But who likes to be typical, we certainly weren't. And if being the last seniors at Bryan High doesn't make us unique, the other things about us and what we did, will certainly make us so -- at least we think it did.

We started our final year like everyone else, on Sept 6 . . . Amer.

BUSINESSES

There are many things you'd like in an advertising career (such as good income, contacts with a fascinating variety of people, constantly new job assignments.) But, from our own experience, the most satisfying part of advertising is the knowledge that you're contributing something useful to people.

For example, you inform people--about new or improved products, where to buy them, how they can be used most effectively. Equally important, you help people to find products at prices they can afford. Advertising creates volume demand for products. This makes possible mass production with its low unit costs. Without mass demand and mass production, only the very rich could afford automobiles, or new school clothes every Fall.

You also protect people by stimulating competition, which is a policeman most manufacturers respect. Vigorous competition helps prevent dishonest practices, poor quality, and unreasonable prices.

By creating a dependable demand for the products you advertise, you create equally dependable jobs for many people. When you help a business succeed and grow, you make the future secure for many employees and their families.

Finally, you help support the mass communications--which are vital to an informed democracy. Without income from advertising, these media would have two choices: either charge subscriptions which only the wealthy could afford, or depend on Government support. Neither choice would be desirable.

While these benefits are especially noticeable in our specialty--the advertising of goods and services for industrial use--we believe they can be achieved as well in consumer advertising. Don't hesitate to call us if you'd like to hear more.
